Strong showing for ASES

Chad Ingram
Staff reporter

In most cases, students throughout Haliburton County are meeting or exceeding provincial averages in core subject areas.

That's according to the latest round of test results from the province's Education Quality and Accountability Office (EQAO), released Sept. 17.

In Minden, students at Archie Stouffer Elementary School are holding strong with their high performance in reading, writing and arithmetic, with results comparable to last year.

Among Grade 3 students, 89 per cent met or exceeded the provincial average in reading, the same as last year.

Ninety per cent were at or above the average in writing, compared to 91 per cent last year, and 80 per cent were at or above the average in mathematics, compared to 82 per cent last year.

Results for Grade 6 students at ASES showed 87 per cent at or above the provincial average in reading, 81 per cent in writing and 73 per cent in math.

"We're very happy," principal Traci Hubbert said. "I think we've done a lot of work as a whole staff. EQAO is seen as a full-staff responsibility, not just the responsibility of Grade 3 and 6 teachers."

Hubbert said the school does a full-staff analysis of the EQAO results and blends them with other research to assess and improve teaching methodologies.

Deputy-reeve leases from CHA president

Chad Ingram
Staff reporter

Algonquin Highlands Ward 2 Councillor and Deputy-reeve Liz Daniels is able to run for political office in the township through a lease on property owned by Coalition of Haliburton Property Owners' Associations president Paul MacInnes.

Danielsen, who lives in Faraday township in Hastings County, will reclaim her seat by acclamation in the Oct. 27 election.

Last month, the paper asked Daniels if she was willing to provide a copy of the lease agreement that allows her to hold office in Algonquin Highlands.

To qualify to run in a municipal election, people must own, rent or lease property in that municipality.

Danielsen referred the paper to the township and the township requested the paper file a Freedom of Information request.

The Times received a copy of the lease agreement last week, which shows that Daniels holds a lease on property MacInnes owns in the former township of Stanhope.

MacInnes is president of the CHA and a past president of the Maple, Beech and Cameron Lakes Area Property Owners' Association (MBC).

The lease commenced March 1, 2010, at which time Daniels was a municipal affairs reporter for the now-defunct Hali-

Danielsen says plan is still to move to Haliburton County

Haliburton County Voice newspaper, and shows an end date of Dec. 31, 2014.

The amount of the per annum payment was redacted by the township, with the township contending it represents personal information under Section 2 of the Municipal Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act.

The agreement also requires Danielsen pay property taxes.

"I've known Paul MacInnes for almost eight years and consider him to be a very good friend," Danielsen wrote in an email to the paper. "When he recognized the challenges I was having in both selling my home in Faraday and buying something suitable that I could afford in Algonquin Highlands, he offered to lease me a piece of land that he owns. It is a piece of land that, should I continue to be unable to find something in AH, might become an option to consider building on, but that remains a topic for discussion with Paul and Susan in the future if necessary. At this point I believe that it would be more cost effective to purchase an existing home rather than trying to build a new one from scratch."

During campaigning in 2010, Danielsen said she intended to move to Haliburton County and while this has not yet happened, she says it is still her intention.

The paper asked if the lease arrangement made her beholden to the interests of MacInnes, the CHA or MBC.

"I'm sure you're aware that as local politicians we all have supporters and people from whom we seek advice," Danielsen wrote. "Paul MacInnes is a well respected individual in Haliburton County who worked very hard on behalf of the members of MBC and now works on behalf of the entire county through his work with CHA. Do I seek his advice? Yes. Am I beholden to him in any way? Absolutely not."

"I'm offended by your second question," Danielsen continued. "For no good reason you are questioning not only my integrity as a local politician, but also Paul's integrity."

Danielsen pointed to MacInnes's dedication to lake stewardship.

"Paul has spent countless hours working on protecting our lakes and our environment and has knowledge as a result of that work that is often very helpful and relative to some of the decisions that I take part in making on a regular basis," she wrote. "Along with many other community leaders throughout the county, I value his input, just as I value the input of many others throughout Algonquin Highlands and the county as a whole. Without the health of our lakes Haliburton County's economy would be in grave danger. Paul is also well respected by a large group of my constituents. They call him for advice and guidance, considering him to be knowledgeable and someone who is very much in touch with the pulse of many people who live in Stanhope and

MacInnes and MBC were central in lobbying against the controversial crosswind runway project at the Stanhope Airport, a project that was supported by the majority of the previous council, but overturned by the current one.

The paper asked MacInnes why he chose to lease land to Danielsen.

"The answer is very simple," he wrote in an email. "I care deeply about my chosen home, the Haliburton Highlands, and my local area of Algonquin Highlands. We really need high quality people to run for municipal office and are not long on candidates, particularly in Algonquin Highlands. I have known Liz for years and know her to be very knowledgeable about the area and its issues, a person of integrity and someone who cares for the area and its taxpayers. I leased the land to Liz so that she could legally run for election in this area."

Danielsen and fellow Ward 2 Councillor Lisa Barry beat out candidate Gerald Bain for the two seats in Ward 2 in the 2010 election.

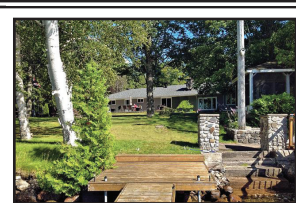

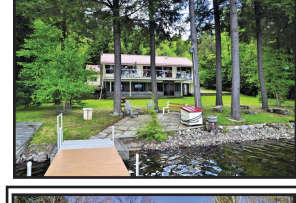

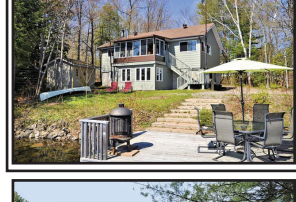

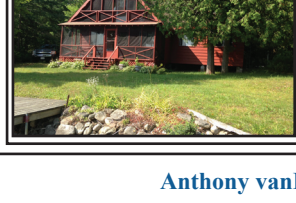

Barry will also reclaim her seat through acclamation in the Oct. 27 election.

The deadline for candidates to file was Sept. 12.

Danielsen wrote that she was "more than a little bit disappointed" the paper had continued to pursue the issue. "It is sad to think that this is all you can find to report as news in the county."

Greenheart Oasis offers respite

Chad Ingram
Staff reporter

A new Minden business offers respite services for the intellectually disabled.

Greenheart Oasis is located at 161 Bobcaygeon Road, adjacent to the Minden Hills Cultural Centre.

"It's a place where people with intellectual disabilities can come and stay for a day, a week, a month," says owner Cindy Thistle, who moved to Minden in June.

She purchased the large family home, where she also lives, with the intent of turning it into a respite centre.

"I was looking for a small town with some spirit," she says of her decision to come to Minden.

A retired human resources officer with the Canadian military, Thistle has been doing community volunteering since the 1980s and holds a diploma in volunteer management.

She said there is no set programming or agenda.

"I'm providing food and a safe place to stay and to learn what they want to learn," Thistle said, who has been working closely with Community Living.

Bradley withdraws libel notice against Minden Hills

Resident who filed a notice of legal action against Minden Hills after Canada Day incident is now running for council

Chad Ingram
Staff reporter

Richard Bradley has withdrawn his notice of a libel lawsuit against the Township of Minden Hills.

Bradley filed papers on Sept. 12 to run for council in the township's Ward 3 in the October election.

"On the day I registered, I delivered a notice to the township that I would no longer be suing," he told the paper.

The notice of legal action stemmed from an incident on Canada Day, when Reeve Barb Reid gave Bradley the middle finger, which he captured on video.

In subsequent media interviews, Reid suggested that Bradley had been stalking and harassing her for a number of years and on July 14, Bradley served two letters of his intention to sue under the Ontario Libel and Slander Act – one to the township and one to Reid herself.

He told the paper he has not withdrawn his notice against the reeve.

"I have made an effort to resolve the matter," he said, explaining he'd sent correspondence asking Reid to retract her statements and apologize, but that he had received no response.

In July, Reid had said she'd defend herself vigorously if Bradley did, in fact, proceed with legal action.

If Bradley is going to take legal action, he must commence it within 90 days of serving notice, which means his deadline is drawing near.

The paper asked if he intended to follow through with the lawsuit against Reid.

"It completely depends on the [legal] advice I receive," he said.

Reid, who apologized to the community at a council meeting following the incident and who is seeking reelection on Oct. 27, did not wish to make further comment regarding the situation.

"I am not in a position to speculate on what Mr. Bradley's plans are," she told the paper.

Bradley, who ran against now-Councillor Ken Redpath in Ward 2 in the 2010 election, will challenge incumbent Councillor Jean Neville in Ward 3.

Return to sender for Canada Post request at Oxtongue Lake

Chad Ingram
Staff reporter

Algonquin Highlands council has denied a request from Canada Post to relocate outdoor mailboxes in Oxtongue Lake to the community centre property.

Councillors discussed the issue during their Sept. 18 meeting.

Mailboxes for the community had been located at the general store along Highway 60 but were recently destroyed by a car collision and Canada Post is unable to reinstall them at the site for safety reasons.

Staff from Canada Post have visited the community and in a letter to the township, suggested putting five mailbox modules on a cement pad that would be installed on the community centre's parking lot, near the entranceway to Highway 60.

"I've received a number of calls on this from the community," said Councillor Marlene Kyle, explaining that reaction was mixed and that some residents were worried about pulling out onto the highway from that location.

"There's also been some concern about parking at the community centre," Kyle said. "It's limited now."

Chief administrative officer Angie Bird was concerned about the mailboxes interfering with the township's snowploughing operations and also liability the township would incur if someone were to, for example, slip and fall on their way to get their mail.

"It's on our property, so we will face that," Bird said.

Kyle said there are alternative locations in the community and council denied Canada Post's request, asking it find another location.

There were some 60 mailboxes located at the general store and residents have been driving to Dwight to pick up their mail.

First novel founded in familiar setting

Jenn Watt
Editor

It's a year of firsts for Gelert resident George Farrell. In November, the visual artist will have his first solo show at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery and more recently, he released his first novel, Lonely Lake: A Cottage Country Mystery.

At 69, Farrell says it may seem late in life to be putting out a first book, however, it would have been an entirely different story had he not waited to this point.

"I wish I would have written it earlier, but I don't think it would have been the same," Farrell says.

He decided to write his first novel based on what he knows best: small town life.

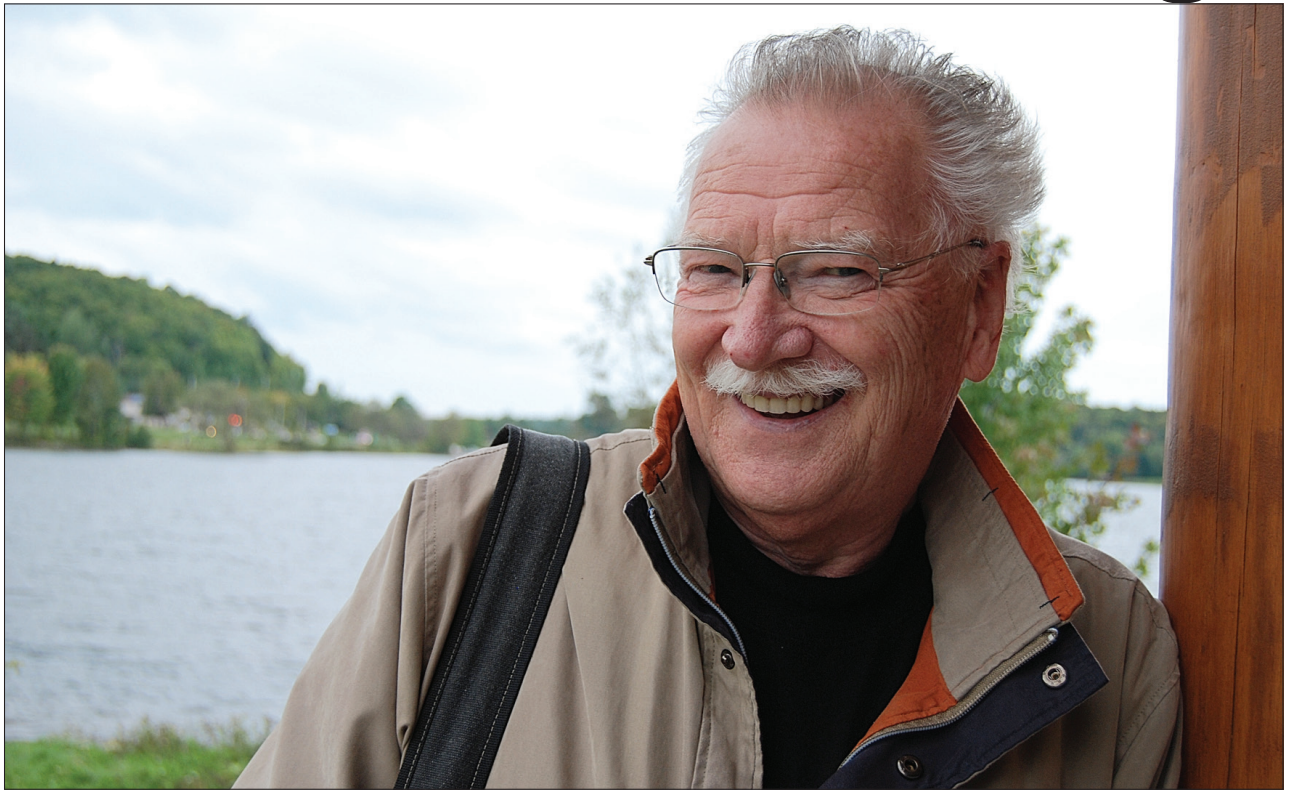

And within that he found quite a lot to write about.

"It is a thinly veiled Haliburton County and a thinly veiled Minden. So if you read it you'll be able to recognize places and characters," he says.

With a backdrop similar to the Highlands (in Lonely Lake, it's called the Heights), a mystery unfolds.

A "nature-loving landowner" resists offers from a developer to buy his land on a pristine lake, to be used for condominiums. The man goes missing and a search ensues.

The plot revolves around Mimi Corbett, her son

Jenn Watt Staff

Gelert resident George Farrell has just released his first novel, Lonely Lake: A Cottage Country Mystery, about a landowner who disappears after refusing to sell his property to developers. Farrell said the book is inspired by Minden and the Haliburton Highlands.

Elgin and an elderly artist named Andre Cheval, who is loosely based on painter Andre Lapine.

Along with a bunch of colourful characters, the novel explores issues deeper than just finding clues and unraveling a mystery, Farrell says.

Art, the environment, single parenthood, aging, bullying and sexuality all play a role.

"I'm not saying [the book] solves them [the issues] or goes into any great depth, but these are all things that are encountered as the story progresses," he says.

Farrell, who has a background in radio and television, wrote the book first as a script for a pilot in an imagined TV series.

Not a traditional mystery novel, the book unfolds as a script or movie would, he says.

A second novel is two-thirds complete.

Farrell and his wife Michelle St. Pierre moved to the Highlands fulltime in the late 1980s after Farrell had an accident when he was working on the set of TV show Road to Avonlea doing sets and props.

The accident wasn't major, but hindered his ability to continue working in the field, so they took the opportunity to move up to the cottage permanently.

For the next decade, the graduate of Ryerson University's radio and television arts worked for the CBC and commuted back and forth to Toronto and eventually worked solely in the Highlands on video and radio projects as well as newspaper columns.

Four years ago, Farrell came into a sum of money large enough to live on for three months while he pursued his desire to write a novel. While the writing part happened rather quickly, the revisions – 10 drafts over the course of the project – took much longer.

"The hardest part was all the reading," Farrell says. He credits former Minden Times owner Jack Brezina for editing the book and Harcourt designer Linda Middleton for guiding him through the self-publishing process.

Cracking open that first box of freshly printed volumes was an experience of "relief and pride," he says.

Lonely Lake should be taken first as a good read and a page-turner.

"I wrote the book strictly as entertainment, not literature for the intelligentsia," Farrell says, however, deeper issues come up. Not everything is happy and not every life is easy; people age and die, develop disabilities and struggle to make ends meet.

Some readers can expect "to learn a bit about life in the Highlands from a different perspective."

Lonely Lake is for sale in Haliburton at Master's Book Store and Rails End Gallery and in Minden at Organic Times and Agnes Jamieson Gallery.

Rogers suggests monopines for Kawagama

Chad Ingram
Staff reporter

Rogers Communications wants to install two cellular towers near Kawagama Lake in Algonquin Highlands.

The proposed towers – one 30 metres in height, one 35 – would be of the monopine design, resembling large pine trees.

One of the proposed sites is just 106 metres from a tower owned by Bell and councillors expressed concern that some lake residents were unhappy about the idea of two towers located on one property.

The company will conduct a public input process in accordance with the township's policy – surveying residents within 500 metres of the proposed locations – before the issue comes back to council.

The towers would not require lighting.

While municipal councils can pass resolutions of support for telecommunications towers, ultimate approval rests with Industry Canada.

Out in the open

THIS ISSUE CONTAINS a story about a local politician who does not own land or live in the county.

This politician is able to hold office in the county through a lease on property, using the lease to run in the previous as well as the current municipal election.

Since it seemed fair that Algonquin Highlands residents know the identity of the leaseholder, I asked this politician for a copy of the lease agreement.

She referred me to the township, the township requested I file a Freedom of Information request, which I did, and last week I received a copy of the lease.

The details are in the story.

Some have called the story a witch hunt, pointing out that this politician does a fine job.

I think most residents would agree she does a fine job.

I'd agree with that.

But that's not the point.

The point is transparency.

Algonquin Highlands residents deserve to know exactly how an individual who does not own land or reside in the county is able to hold office and they deserve to know the identity of the leaseholder, who, it happens, is the president of a large property owners' organization.

The argument could be made that this financial arrangement essentially makes this politician beholden to the interests of this organization, that she is, more or less, this organization's representative on council.

And maybe this is fine since the membership of this organization comprises a good chunk of her constituency.

That's up to residents to decide.

The politician was unhappy that I was pursuing the story, writing that she was "more than a little disappointed," and that "it is sad to think that this is all you can find to report as news in the county."

Politicians are not in a position to be "disappointed" by journalists.

They can be offended, sure. Upset, sure. Angry, sure.

But disappointed?

Disappointment is something reserved for close relationships.

Journalists are here to keep an eye on politicians, to scrutinize their actions on behalf of the public and yes, to question their integrity.

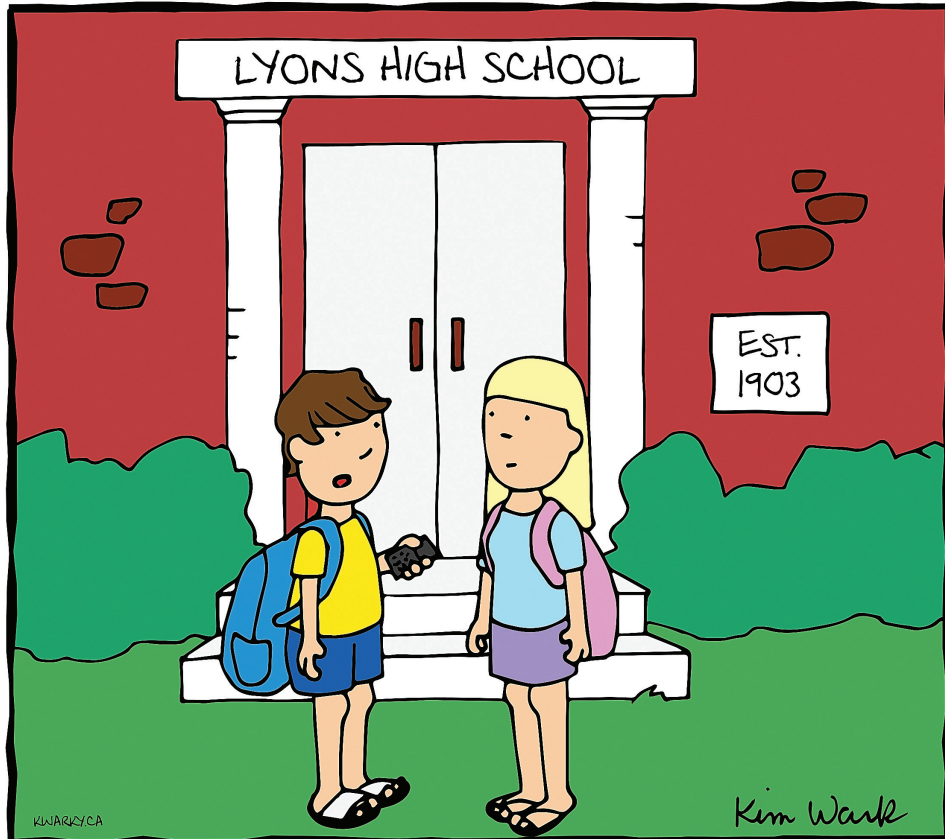

It seems like maybe this politician, who was once a municipal affairs reporter herself, has forgotten that.

She also seems to have forgotten that her particular situation is a political anomaly, one that deserves to be scrutinized, and that exactly how she is able to hold office in the community is most certainly the public's business.

letters to the editor

Dismayed at closure of spring

To the Editor,

Myself and family, along with many other neighbours and friends are dismayed with the permanent closure of the cold spring on Hwy 118 in Algonquin Highlands. The township should erect a plaque on site as follows:

"Cold Spring

Here once was the source of drinking water for many a resident and traveller, man, beast or bird. Sadly, now closed, due to government interference and bureaucratic regulation without consultation. However, take heart, noting this is for your greater good in the nanny state we call Ontario."

P.S. Interesting to note that the official response from Algonquin Highlands is to pass the buck back to the province and then close the public water tap at the Stanhope airport causing further inconvenience. If the township hadn't spent so many tax dollars on lawyers, trying to ram through the airport expansion that nobody wanted there may have been enough bucks to put in a hydro service and well monitoring station at the spring site. Sadly not the case.

Need for two-bedroom units

To the Editor,

It was great to read the piece in your paper about possible apartments being built for us (hopefully not in the floodplain) even though it'll probably be another five to 10 years before we see them, if they don't fall by the wayside.

But (isn't there always a but?) why are they all talking about mostly one-bedroom apartments?

I've been waiting eight years for a two-bedroom market value and my friends 10 years for the same. Another friend got into a one-bedroom apartment geared to income in four years and another friend's mother just got into a one-bedroom after only two years' wait.

So does that tell anybody anything?

I realize they can cram more one-bedrooms into a space, but we can't all live in a soup can.

If they checked with the already functioning apartment buildings, I'm sure the stats from them would help.

Apples and oranges

LAST WEEKEND I was duck hunting with my brother who lives in Cobourg and works in the booming metropolis of Ajax. That and the fact that he can burp the entire alphabet makes him far more worldly and sophisticated than I'll ever be.

That's why I paid close attention during one conversation we had in the duck blind. For it was then he first referred to someone he worked with as a "banana."

In fact, after describing something stupid his co-worker did, my brother's exact words were "Can you believe that banana?"

Needless to say, I was taken aback.

I'm not exactly current on the latest trends in insults, but I sure hope this is where it's going. Because, frankly, between you and me, I think there is something to be said for scaling back our insults to a level where they can be said in public without fear of offending sensibilities of anyone except the kumquat you are referring to.

Besides, when he called his acquaintance a banana, I got the picture just fine – the guy was clearly a dummy.

Needless to say, I'm sure it could have been worse. He could have called his co-worker a "crab apple" for instance. Or even a bumble berry, though that might have been a bit too harsh given the circumstance.

The more I think about it though, the more I believe this is the right way for society to go. The only way it could get any better is if we added vegetables into the mix.

Don't believe me?

Well, think of that dumb rutabaga who cut you off in traffic last week and you'll see what I mean. Rutabaga says it all, right? Of course it does.

Yes, once we add vegetables into the mix, there are literally hundreds of really colourful insults at our disposal. It will allow us to enjoy phrases like, "What a beetroot!" or utter sentences like, "Listen here you big potato!" in our everyday life. And there is certainly some merit in that.

Better yet, it opens insults right up to the masses and levels the playing field. Even a four year old can call you a mango.

I'd also like to see this trend make its way into urban music. I'd actually hope it will replace the profanity that has – let's be honest – lost all its shock value.

The truth is when I hear "@%!$#!" in a hip-hop song – as I often do – it hardly even makes me raise an eyebrow anymore. But replace "@%!$#!" with "lima

Every town had a train station

Trains are big and black and smokin' – steam screamin' at the wheels, bigger than anything they is, at least that's the way she feels.

Guy Clark, Texas 1947

THE SONG WRITER'S STEAM locomotives in Monahans, Tex., weren't much noisier than the terrifying machines that came crash-bang-squealing into the station at Guelph, Ont.

Or into the station at Rogersville when Jean-Paul Bourque was growing up in Acadian New Brunswick, halfway between Newcastle and Moncton.

Bourque, who country music fans know as Johnny Burke, is about the same age as I am, so we remember when trains were the tie that bound Canada together and every little village had a train station.

They're also the tie that binds together Johnny's Bells and Whistles Tour that will come to Haliburton next month.

Train songs will fill most of the evening's agenda – Johnny Cash's Hey Porter!, Roger Miller's Engine Engine Number Nine, Jerry Jeff Walker's Railroad Lady, the folk song Wabash Cannonball made famous by Roy Acuff . . .

And Johnny's favourite, Canadian Pacific. Vancouver songwriter Ray Griff is also of our generation and so too, until a heart attack took him away just last week, was George Hamilton IV, whose biggest hit was Canadian Pacific.

Johnny can't remember whether the trains that stopped in Rogersville when he was a boy were pulled by steam engines, but they must have been. Later on, the train would be the way back home from Toronto.

Take a look at the locomotive beside the high school, at the size of it, at the height of its wheels. Imagine a small boy looking up at the monster as it huffs and puffs into the station, air brakes screeching it to a stop mere feet from where he stands, transfixed in terror.

Mixed trains with passengers and mail and herefords rolled through my little village of Fordwich, which was not much bigger than Gooderham.

If you lived in Gooderham, you could catch a train to Howland Junction, west of Kinmount, and connect with the train to Dutch Line, Gelert, Lochlin, Donald, Gould's Crossing and, eventually, Haliburton village.

In Fordwich, we laid coins on the rails to let the trains squash them, just as Guy Clark did in Monahans. Once the big boys borrowed a hand-car, pumped it on down the track, and I came along for the ride.

Bells and Whistles has been making its stops in little Ontario towns where the trains used to matter – Hillsburgh and Aylmer, Cookstown and Shelburne, Palmerston and, on Oct. 4, Haliburton, at the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion.

Neil Campbell
Back of Beyond

"Every town had a train station," Johnny, a member of the Canadian Country Music Hall of Fame, remembers. "It's how you got in and out of town. Everybody loves train songs."

Johnny says the train still stops in Rogersville. When he was a boy, folks parked their cars across from the station just to check who got on and off the train.

The train theme was the idea of Lynda Bristow, mother of 16-year-old wunderkind Naomi Bristow of Beeton, Ont., who shares top billing with Johnny on the Tour. The show came together last winter.

Joe Howe will be on lead guitar and Dwayne Friesen on bass. "No drums," says Johnny. "It will be a very simple acoustic show."

Bells and Whistles has had some interesting stops, one of them in a home with an elaborate model train layout. Though the show is far more music than talk, Johnny is looking for input from historical societies.

Haliburton train buffs could tell him that the Victoria Railway was the making of our county. When Peterborough County refused to subsidize a rail link to its northern townships, the townships broke away to form Haliburton County and came up with the cash.

The first train pulled into Haliburton village in 1878. Hikers and snowmobilers still follow its route on the Rail Trail. Minden got the county seat as a consolation prize; you had to hitch a ride to Gelert to catch the train. The Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa Railway came a little later.

Not all of Bells and Whistles will be train songs. Johnny's fans will insist on his biggest hit, Wild Honey, and there may be a song or two from his new CD, perhaps the splendid Honeymoon, maybe even I'm A Bud Man, a 30-second television commercial Johnny did back in the 1990s.

The Tour has done well enough in Ontario that Johnny's thinking of taking it back home to the Maritimes, where he spends big chunks of each summer performing.

Johnny expects his Haliburton neighbours to give him a full house for his Bells and Whistle stop on the Saturday after next. He'll have the Northern Lights stage dressed up like a railway crossing, just to set the mood.

Gail Gillespie

This month's Celebrity Reader is Gail Gillespie, Branch Assistant at the Haliburton County Public Library. She read Fugitive Pieces by Canadian poet and author Anne Michaels.

"It is beautifully written, with wonderful images and an almost lyrical quality. The story is poignant, and the two main characters are gentle and endearing." Says Gail of the Anne Michaels' Giller Prize nominated title.

The reader is drawn immediately into the story as Jakob, a young Jew in Nazi-occupied Poland, is traumatized by the killing of his parents and disappearance of his adored older sister.

— Gail Gillespie

"The reader is drawn immediately into the story as Jakob, a young Jew in Nazi-occupied Poland, is traumatized by the killing of his parents and disappearance of his adored older sister."

Fugitive Pieces will appeal to "readers who enjoy lyrical writing, a compelling and moving story, touching characters or stories about Holocaust survivors."

The book chronicles not only Jakob's experiences during World War Two, fleeing Poland for Greece with his rescuer Athos a Greek geologist, but also explores his post-war life. "They move to Toronto after the war, but Jakob is haunted for years by his memories and loss."

Thank-you, Gail, for being this month's Celebrity Reader. Fugitive Pieces by Anne Michaels along with the motion picture based on the book are available to reserve at the Haliburton County Public Library.

Mixed results for county students

Results showed that Grade 3 students tend to enjoy core subjects far more than their Grade 6 counterparts.

Among Grade 3 students, 51 per cent said they liked to read most of the time, 57 liked to write most of the time and 69 per cent liked to do math most of the time.

Among Grade 6 students, 32 per cent said they like to read and write most of the time and 36 per cent said they liked to do math most of the time.

At Wilberforce Elementary School, about in one five students are achieving the provincial average in math.

Twenty-two per cent of Wilberforce Grade 6 students met or exceeded the provincial average in mathematics, down from 28 per cent.

Elaine Fournier, principal for the Cardiff and Wilberforce schools, said the picture is more complex than the base results indicate.

"It's important to have an idea of just how small the sample size is," Fournier said.

Eleven Grade 3 students in Cardiff and 14 Grade 6 students in Wilberforce took the test, which means the performance of a single student can sway the results significantly.

"As the principal of the school, that's the first thing I take into account, Fournier said. "Let's not get too hung up on what's on the front page. The tale for us is certainly deeper into the results."

As Fournier explained, educators receive EQAO results more detailed than the ones publicly released. Results are divided into four levels – one being the lowest, four being the highest.

Fournier said many students sit in the Level 2 area, not far from the provincial average. The test results, which for principals are available right down to the individual student, inform the teaching process and help staff evaluate how to move forward.

"And that's the story for us, in all areas," Fournier said. "That's going to be the focus of our work."

There was an improvement in reading among Grade 6 students, with 51 per cent meeting or exceeding the average.

That was up from 46 per cent.

Sixty per cent of students made the grade in writing, a slight drop from 61 per cent.

Cardiff Elementary School saw improvement across the board in its Grade 3 students, with 56 per cent meeting or exceeding the average in reading, 78 in writing and 58 in math.

These percentages were up from 51, 62 and 56, respectively.

At Haliburton's Stuart Baker Elementary School, 76 per cent of students achieved or surpassed the provincial average in reading, 86 per cent in writing and 77 per cent in math.

The results were similar to those last year.

At J.D. Hodgson Elementary School, there were improvements in reading and writing and a slight dip in mathematics among Grade 6 students.

In both reading and writing, 75 per cent of students met or exceeded the provincial average, a jump in both cases from 69 per cent.

Forty-one per cent of Grade 6 students at JDH met or exceeded the provincial average in math, down from 43.

At Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, 47 per cent of Grade 9 applied math students met or surpassed the provincial average.

That figure was 85 per cent for Grade 9 students enrolled in academic mathematics.

As a whole, 70 per cent of Grade 3 students in Trillium Lakelands District School Board met or exceeded the provincial average in reading, 75 in writing and 68 in math.

At the board level, 76 per cent of Grade 6 students met or exceeded the provincial average in reading, 70 in writing and 52 per cent in math.

At the board level, 57 per cent of Grade 9 applied math students met or exceeded the average, this figure rising to 84 per cent for academic students.

Deadline extended for airport project

Chad Ingram

Staff reporter

Councillors agreed to extend the contract for the completion of electrical and engineering work at the Stanhope Airport.

In March, council awarded the contract for work at the airport to Fowler Construction for approximately $3.5 million, the work including site preparation for the MNR base project – the clearing of trees, construction of taxiways, etc. – as well the construction of new hangars.

"As the project nears completion, we can advise that all civil and airfield works including topsoil, seed, paving and marking will be completed by the Oct. 17 milestone," Fowler's project manager Alex Chavuson wrote in an Sept. 8 correspondence to the township's engineering consultant, Mike Osborne.

While two of four new hangar buildings are complete, Chavuson's letter indicated the third would not be complete until Oct. 22, the fourth Nov. 12.

According to the correspondence, the delay has to do with extra time required to remove the tree-clearing debris and subcontractors being committed to another project.

Chavuson requested the formal deadline be extended from Oct. 17 to Nov. 12.

"My first reaction to this was not necessarily a positive one," said Deputy-reeve Liz Danielsen. "My first concern was the tenants."

Chief administrative officer Angie Bird said the completion of the third hangar – now slated for Oct. 22 – would mean that all pilots currently renting hanger space would have their planes housed by that time.

Councillors approved the extension.

The province is relocating its local fire response base from Haliburton Village to the Stanhope Airport in a $12-million project scheduled to be completed in 2015.

Two-thirds of the township's costs will be covered with provincial and federal money through Building Canada Fund money that was initially earmarked for the cross-wind runway project at the airport.

That project was cancelled by the current council, which was able to get the funding directed to work on the MNR project.

Hawks take opener

Darren Lum
Staff reporter

They weren't always pretty, but they got the job done against the visiting Saints of the St. Peter's Catholic Secondary School.

The Red Hawks senior football showed how good they could be, but also showed how bad they could be in their home opener on Thursday, Sept. 18 at the Gary G. Brohman Athletic Field in Haliburton.

When you take a 17-0 lead into the second half it's usually an indication of utter domination and enough of a cushion to ensure a victory.

However teenagers will be teenagers and nothing is ever certain.

The Saints showed with a half still left to play that they weren't ready to throw in the towel. Midway through the third quarter, the Saints jumped on the board with a rushing touchdown off of a sweep play that saw the Hawks defensive corps unable to keep pace, surrendering six points. They added to the score with a successful two-point play on a rush following the touchdown, 17-8.

The second half let up was apparent, as the Saints grabbed the momentum and took it to the Hawks.

Coach Derek Little thought with such a short pre-season, fitness was part of the problem.

"Conditioning is bit of an interest. They seemed gassed, even coming off. We made some substitutions, which kind of restored the freshness because we have some depth, but the other issue is they're high school kids," he said. "They don't have that killer instinct and maybe will never have it, but when you get [the other team] down there's nothing wrong with jamming the dagger down a little deeper."

He adds the players were taking plays off, which led to break downs, whether it was assignments or simple adherence to procedures such as lining up properly for plays.

"It's a mental thing ... between some mental breakdowns and the conditioning we'll get better. It's the first game. We've had a total of 11 practices," he said.

Little acknowledges that his defence managed to step it up when it was most needed though.

"Second half the defence did a really good job of guys were moving where they needed to be and that helped to shut things down. A great team effort and looking forward to the next one," he said.

A long gain by a Saints player would have likely led to a touchdown if it weren't for a timely penalty. The play was called back on a procedure (not enough players on the line of scrimmage) penalty. The Hawks may not always be this fortunate again, but will take it this time, said coach Little.

"It's one of those things you hate to thank the football gods for helping win the game, but it takes all kinds of things this early in the season. A win's a win. We can take a lot of positives from it and we move forward," he said.

The team's next home game is against the Fenelon Falls Secondary School Falcons on Friday, Oct. 3. Kick off is 4 p.m.

Falcons stop Hawks short of victory

Darren Lum
Staff reporter

It all came down to the final minute to decide the game between the junior Red Hawks football team and the visiting Fenelon Falls Secondary School Falcons.

A large crowd gathered on nearly the entire length of one side of the Gary G. Brohman Athletic Field, watching and waiting with bated breath, hoping for the miracle comeback in the Hawks home and season opener on Thursday, Sept. 18.

With the team down 24-20, the Hawks were set to score, standing inside the five-yard-line with three downs to work with.

The Falcons, however, had their own plan, stuffing the run and holding the line for the 24-20 win with less than a minute.

When asked about the missed opportunity coach Bruce Griffith groaned, expressing without words how close the game was.

"That was a great game ... first game, I mean we only had two weeks of practice so tons of mistakes, which we expected," he said. "But we started off really strong ... they adjusted, they have great coaching. They adjusted really well. They've got that speed that we don't have, but then we made the come back and I thought we were going to win it. But they scored again. But we marched it down and we were on their three yard-line and we had three plays."

He adds even with the team's "big beast" Izac Reid they couldn't crack the line.

The loss was also due to the Falcons solid coaching, he adds.

When the Hawks jumped to a 12-0 lead in the first half it looked like the game was going to be over before the first half was over. No one knew how close the game would end up being. The Falcons answered with 18 straight points, robbing the momentum and silencing the approximate 100 fans.

Despite the momentum loss and a four-point (18-14) deficit, the homeside showed resolve in taking a late lead with a few minutes left only to lose the lead with close to 30 seconds left. Rookie Hawks quarterback Rylan Gwyn made a strong throw to his receiver that turned it up field along the sideline for a first down and a 25-yard plus pass play. It set up an eventual second and short opportunity inside the 10-yardline when fullback Izac Reid ran it up the middle for a 20-18 late in the fourth quarter.

The Falcons, using their speed pushed the Hawks back, eventually scoring to reclaim the lead 24-18. Without a successful extra-point, the Hawks had a chance to win with a touchdown, but couldn't push through the defence from inside the five yard-line, turning the ball over on downs.

Griffith thought the game was a great barometer for the team in terms of how it stacks up against the best.

"I know they're going to be the No. 1 team in our tier. I knew that so we almost beat them. That looks good," he said.

He wouldn't be surprised, he said if the two teams meet up in the playoffs.

The loss of a few players with pace has changed the dynamic of the team

"We're not a speed team. We're a power team this year. We just don't have that speed. We've got lots to fix and that's what we're going to do," he said.

Griffith is already eyeing the team's next opponent, referring to Holy Cross this week.

"We're going to win," he said, smiling. "We're going to pound them."

Afterwards back at the Branch a reception was waiting, prepared by volunteers Sharron Atkinson and Joan Shaddock.

Volume 1 of Ontario Command's Military Service Recognition Book is now at the Branch.

It records the stories of more than 450 veterans submitted from across Ontario. If you would like to submit a story of a veteran to be considered for the next edition, there is a downloadable form available at www.on.legion.ca.

Lest we forget those from Haliburton County who died in the service of our country. Ninety-eight years ago, on Sept 15 1916 private Frederick John McGill Crofts was killed by shellfire while passing through an intense enemy barrage near the sugar refinery at Courcellette, France.

His next of kin, mother Mary Crofts [nee Kitchen] would likely have been informed of his death in a telegram delivered to her home in Lochlin.

Born in Minden Township, Frederick was 30 years old, 5' 9½", with blue eyes, brown hair and a scar on his left wrist.

His name is listed on the Vimy Memorial, along with at least 8 others from Haliburton County: James Bishop, Herbert Cox, Russell Curry, Robert Dack, John Hobden, Bruce McKnight, Leslie Reynolds and Donald Watt.

THE MINDEN CHURCH MOUSE

heard that...

Divine grace is alive in the inspired

The Minden Church Mouse heard ...
Don't put a question mark where God put a period.

Don't wait for six strong men to take you to church. Forbidden fruits create many jams. God doesn't call the qualified, He qualifies the called. God grades on the cross, not the curve.

The Minden Church Mouse also heard Father Peter said ...

"No one has ascended into heaven except the one who descended from heaven, the Son of Man" (John 3: 13)

Today the divine grace is so visible in many people. There are some who carry a certain spiritual glow and they inspire others with love and kindness. There are so many people who bring more blessings to this world today. These people have a common criteria namely the Holy Cross. It's the cross which lifts them all up and fills them with divine gifts. The spiritual value of the cross is so immense and those who spend time at the foot of the cross receive blessings upon blessings. It has so much power to bring unity and peace among us. Nothing will lack for those who embrace the cross and the power of Christ that falls from the cross will remove all our sins and will make us holy. As we fix our eyes on the cross, we will surely be healed of all ailments and sins.

The spirituality of the Cross sheds a new light on our human suffering and pain. Every nail that held our Savior on the cross has the power to free us from our physical pain and every thorn that was on the crown of Christ has the power to rekindle our mind. Life giving water flows from the Holy Cross and it can satisfy the human hunger. It's the cross that unites us with one another and with God the Father.

Our Minden Catholic community is celebrating "The exaltation of the Cross" this weekend. It is especially praying for the community.

We are also excited to share that we are getting ready to welcome the new Bishop William Mcgrattan on September 21 and all are welcome.

Here at the old farmhouse Jake the tuxedo cat has settled into one of his favourite spots on the desk blotter in front of my computer screen which does not help productivity.

Cousin Margo has just left for the drive back to London and her daily walking companion Taffy seems a little despondent.

It was a busy visit marked by a momentous event when we baked a terrific apple pie albeit with Tenderflake frozen pastry. Thinking back to Connemara Camp days one year we had a cook who working out of the limited space in the farm kitchen had been assured that canned pie filling would suffice.

The menu on Pioneer Days included pumpkin pie not familiar to our Caribbean chef. Much to our surprise the campers did not eat their dessert even with ample amounts of whipped cream. On tasting true to my word the filling came straight from the can - raw pumpkin puree with no redeeming additives.

This weekend across the country Canada Cultural Days will be celebrated. Here in Kinmount on Saturday, Sept. 27 at the Kinmount Artisans Marketplace from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. there will be members demonstrating their talents in recognition of this aspect of cultural endeavours.

A good crowd was on hand at last Friday evening's All Candidates Meeting held at the Burnt River Community Centre.

Those running for mayor and council seats in the City of Kawartha Lake had the opportunity to address both city wide and local concerns.

Here in Kinmount [Ward 3] the ongoing absence of a gas station continues to negatively affect businesses and tourism. After such a long period without a station both our residents and seasonal visitors have had to find new sources for their gasoline needs which often has resulted, out of convenience and fuel conservation, to their also shopping away for groceries and other supplies as well. Come election day on Oct. 27 do exercise your franchise.

The annual fall event for the Haliburton Grannies to Grannies will have a new name and location this year.

Coming up on Sunday, Oct. 5 Fall for Africa will be held at Abbey Gardens located at 1012 Garden Gate Drive on Hwy.118 near West Guilford.

From noon to 4 p.m. enjoy mulled cider, harvest treats and an African marketplace with crafts made by local Grannies plus a Silent Auction, a guided tour of Abbey Gardens, music and a Drumming Circle. Admission is by donation to the Haliburton Highlands Grannies in support of the Stephen Lewis Foundation.

This Monday, Sept. 29 the Kinmount Guiding Unit which includes the Sparks and Brownies will resume meeting Monday evenings from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at the Kinmount Community Centre.

There the girls enjoy a variety of projects and learning opportunities with making scarecrows for the Harvest Homecoming and Studio Tour on this week's agenda.

For more information on the group give Lynne a call at 705-488-2919 or drop by on a Monday evening.

Donations of jeans, plaid shirts and other appropriate scarecrow wardrobe accessories would be welcomed and can be left at the Artisans Marketplace.

Thanksgiving is fast approaching and here in Kinmount with it the last chance to visit the Farmers' Market, the Railway Station and the Highlands Cinemas.

On Saturday, Oct. 11 there will be festive events at the Railway Station yards and on Monday, Oct. 13 the Kinmount & District Lions Club will hold its draw in the Legion's parking lot.

The Kinmount & Area Artisans Guild will host its 20th Harvest Homecoming Studio Tour on both Saturday and Sunday Oct. 11 and 12 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. with four locations and eleven members participating. Pick up your brochure/map at the Marketplace or go on line to the link at kinmount.ca.

Legion Week has now finished but there are always many ongoing activities at Branch 441 Kinmount some of which are open to non-members as well.

This month's Liver & Onions lunch is on Tuesday, Sept. 30 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. For the main dish, beverage and dessert the cost is only $7 and there is always an optional hot entree available for non L&O fans.

The popular Roast Beef Dinner & Loonie Auction will be held on Saturday, Oct. 18 and for ticket information please give the Branch a call at 705-488-3462.

Advance tickets are $12 and based on last year's turnout don't delay to avoid disappointment.

Until next week.
